

Baltimore City Demographics

Population Trends

Baltimore City Population, 1950-1990 and 2000-2007

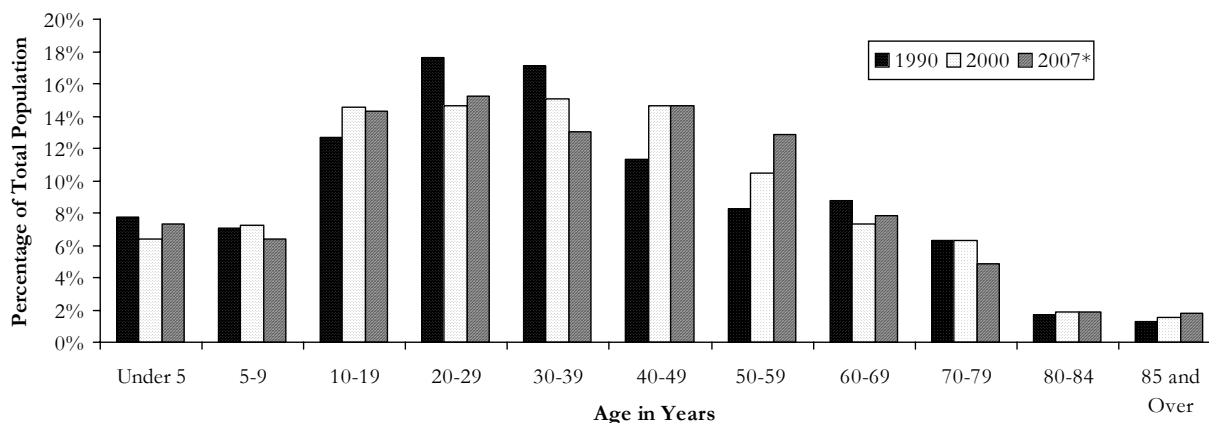

Source: U.S. Census Bureau - 1950-2000 population counts come from the decennial census of that particular year, counts for 2001-2007 (postcensal years) come from the Population Estimates Program (Vintage 2007). Vintage 2007 population estimates incorporate population challenges filed by the City of Baltimore for 2001-2006; the 2007 challenge for Baltimore City was not yet available. See technical notes for more information about data from the Census.

Baltimore City's population peaked in 1950 and declined steadily until the 21st century. Since 2000, the decrease in the City's population has slowed considerably to the point that population increases were observed in 2003 and 2006.

Age Distribution

Age Distribution, Baltimore City Residents 1990, 2000, and 2007

Source: U.S. Census Bureau - 1990 Census, 2000 Census, and 2007 Population Estimates *Data for 2007 are derived from a different source than the 1990 and 2000 data (the population estimates program vs. decennial censuses) and represent a 7 year time increment (2000 to 2007) vs. a 10 year increment (1990 to 2000)

Over the past decade and a half, the age distribution of Baltimore City residents has shifted towards older age groups—with a decrease in the number of residents in the 20-39 year age group and an increase in number of residents in the 40-59 year age group. The proportion of Baltimore City's population over 40 years of age increased from 38% in 1990 to 44% in 2007. In 2007, the median age of a Baltimore City resident was 35.4 years, slightly younger than residents of Maryland and the U.S. as a whole (with median ages of 37.4 and 36.6 years, respectively).

Baltimore City Demographics

Race and Ethnicity, 2007

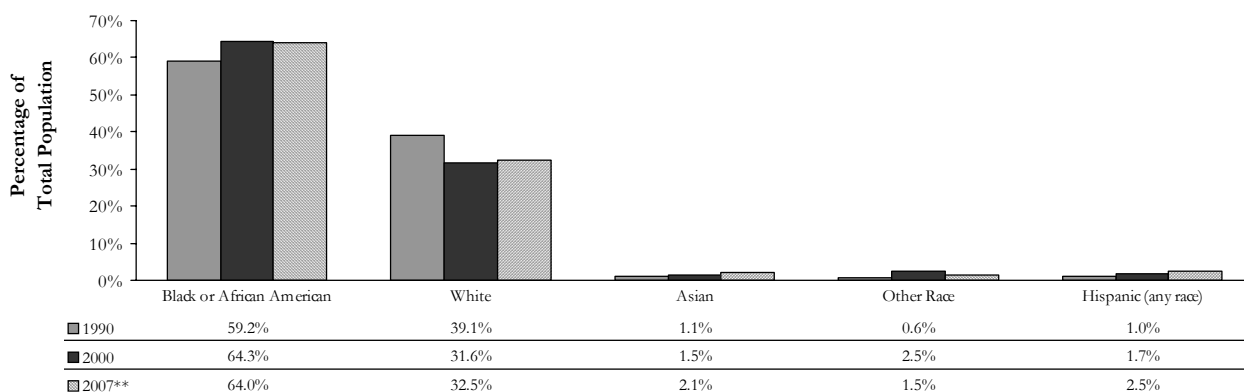

Baltimore City Population by Race/Ethnicity, 2007
Total Population	637,455	Percent
Black or African American alone	407,851	64.0%
White alone	206,921	32.5%
Asian alone	13,077	2.1%
American Indian and Alaska Native alone	2,176	0.3%
Native Hawaiian and Other Pacific Islander alone	295	0.0%
Two or more races	7,135	1.1%
Not Hispanic or Latino	621,602	97.5%
Hispanic or Latino	15,853	2.5%

Source: U.S. Census Bureau, 2007 Population Estimates

- Nearly two thirds of city residents are African American and nearly one third are White.
- Over the past decade and a half, the proportion of black Baltimore City residents has increased by 8% and the proportion of white Baltimore City residents has decreased by 17%.
- While the classification of Asian race changed from the 1990 to the 2000 census (see note in graph below), the proportion of Asian Baltimore City residents has increased by at least 90% (comparing 1990 to 2007).
- Comparing 1990 to 2007, the proportion of the population who were of Hispanic ethnicity has more than doubled—comprising 1% of the population in 1990 and 2.5% in 2007.

Race and Ethnicity Trend

Race and Ethnicity*, Baltimore City residents, 1990, 2000, and 2007

Source: U.S. Census Bureau - 1990 Census, 2000 Census, and 2007 Population Estimates. *Race categories changed from the 1990 to 2000 census—respondents to the 2000 census were allowed to categorize themselves as more than one race and the categories were adjusted—the "Asian or Pacific Islander" changed to "Asian" and a category for "Native Hawaiian and Other Pacific Islander" was created. In the graph above, the "Other Race" category includes individuals of the following races: American Indian or Alaska Native alone, Native Hawaiian or other Pacific Islander alone, or individuals of two or more races. Data for 2007 are derived from a different source than the 1990 and 2000 data (the population estimates program vs. decennial censuses) and represent a 7 year time increment (2000 to 2007) vs. a 10 year increment (1990 to 2000).

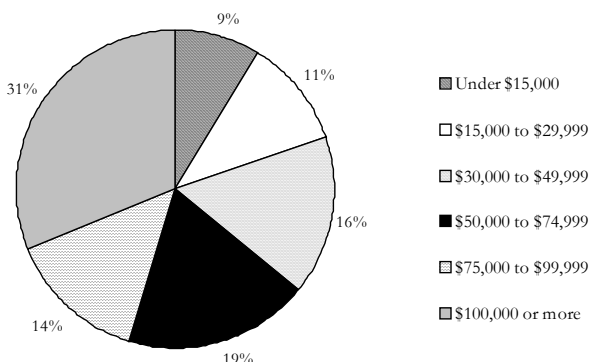

Baltimore City Demographics

Economic Characteristics

2007 Household Income, Baltimore City

2007 Household Income, Maryland

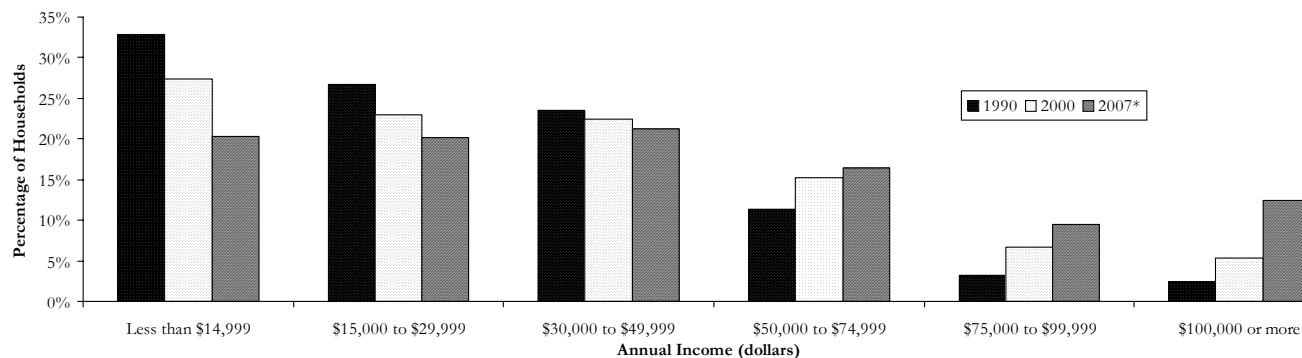

Source: U.S. Census Bureau - American Community Survey, 2007

2007 Median Household Income in the Past 12 months (in 2007 Inflation Adjusted Dollars), Baltimore City	Estimate	Margin of Error*
All Households	36,949	+/-896
Black or African American Alone	32,023	+/-1,276
White Alone	51,584	+/-2,805
Asian Alone	48,689	+/-11,504
Native Hawaiian and Other Pacific Islander Alone	61,711	+/-1,486
Two or More Races	34,860	+/-6,279
Hispanic or Latino	33,890	+/-5,883
White Alone, Not Hispanic or Latino	52,638	+/-3,624

Source: U.S. Census Bureau, 2007 American Community Survey (ACS)
*See technical notes for information about data from the ACS

- Forty percent of Baltimore City households reported an income of less than $30,000 in 2007. Statewide, 20% of households reported an income in this range.
- 2007 Baltimore City median household income differed by race of the head of household.
- The 2007 median household income in Baltimore City for all races was $36,949; approximately half of the statewide median income. Maryland had the highest median household income nationwide during 2007 ($68,080).
- Since 1990, the percentage of Baltimore City households reporting an annual median income of $30,000 or greater has increased by almost 50% (from 40% of households in 1990 to 60% in 2007).

Median Annual Income Among Baltimore City Households: 1990, 2000, and 2007

Source: U.S. Census Bureau - 1990 Census, 2000 Census, and 2007 American Community Survey (ACS)

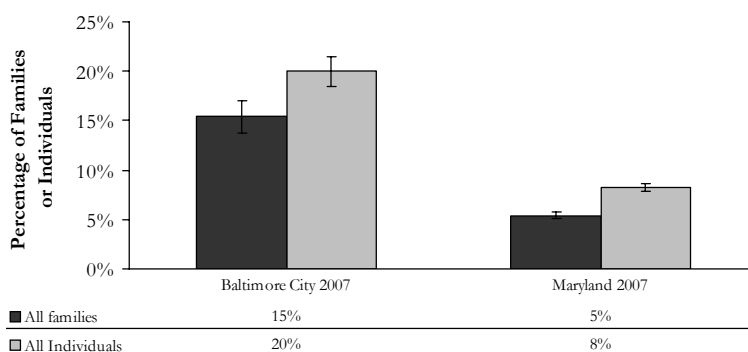

*Data points for 2007 are derived from a different source than the 1990 and 2000 data (the American Community Survey vs. decennial censuses) and represent a 7 year time increment (2000 to 2007) vs. a 10 year increment (1990 to 2000). See technical notes for more information about data from the Census.

Baltimore City Demographics

Economic Characteristics

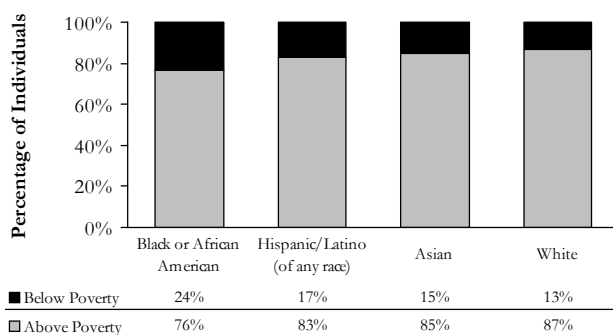

- In 2007, a family of four with two adults and two children under 18 years would be considered “below poverty” if their annual income was less than $21,027. [U.S. Census Bureau, 2007 Poverty Threshold—see technical notes for more information].
- Three times as many families living in Baltimore City had an income that was below the poverty level compared to Maryland families in 2007.

Percentage of Families and Individuals Whose Income is Below Poverty Level (and 90% CI), Baltimore City vs. Maryland 2007

Source: U.S. Census Bureau, 2007 American Community Survey (error bars represent the 90% confidence interval around the estimate). See technical notes for more information on the American Community Survey (ACS) and for more information on how Poverty threshold is determined.

Percent of Individuals Above and Below Poverty by Race/Ethnicity, Baltimore City, 2007

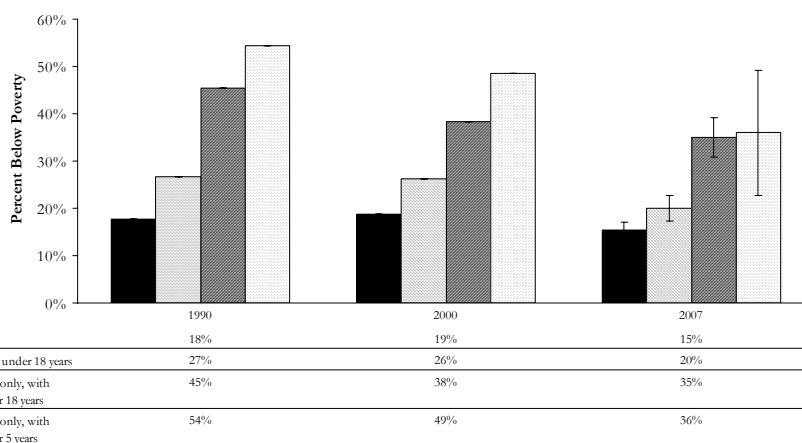

Source: U.S. Census Bureau, 2007 American Community Survey. See technical notes for more information on how the Poverty threshold is determined and for more information about the ACS.

- In 2007, more than three-quarters of Baltimore City residents of all races had incomes that were above the poverty level, however, African American residents of Baltimore City were almost two times as likely than white residents to have a median income below the poverty level.

- Baltimore City families with children and a single parent were more likely to have an income below the poverty level compared to families with no children or two parents in 1990, 2000, and 2007.
- Over the past decade and a half, the percentage of Baltimore City families whose income was below the poverty level has decreased.

Percentage of Families Whose Income is Below Poverty Level, Baltimore City 1990, 2000, and 2007

Source: U.S. Census Bureau - 2000 Census, 1990 Census, and 2007 American Community Survey (survey data are presented with 90% confidence intervals around estimates). See technical notes for more information on how the poverty threshold is determined and for more information on comparison of American Community Survey data to decennial Census data.